'Stealth' Spying Is Denied

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7 (AP) — Thomas Cavanagh, a former engineer for the Northrop Corporation, pleaded not guilty today to charges that he tried to sell secrets about the radar-invisible "stealth" bomber to the Soviet Union for $25,000. United States Magistrate Ralph Geffen assigned the case to Federal District Judge Matthew Byrne to set a trial date. Mr. Cavanagh, 40 years old, of Downey, has been held without bail.
